Soloists for Mendelssohn Choir Concerts

M. Weisbach Henri Scott-Basso Lambert Murphy-Tenor

THE Chicago Symphony Orchestra will arrive tomorrow morning direct from Chicago to take part in the concert with the Mendelssohn choir of Omaha, which will be held in the Auditorium on Monday (tomorrow) evening and on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

This Omaha institution, supported by Omaha people and backed by prominent men of the business and professional world, assumes a herculean task each year in working up a subscription sale large enough to insure the financial end of an enterprise which includes the bringing here of one of the best orchestras in the country, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, founded by Theodore Thomas and conducted by Frederick Stock.

The choir will sing this year a good amount of unaccompanied choral music and will be supported by the orchestra in several numbers; those in which the orchestra will be used will be the choruses "Behold God the Lord Passed By" and the beautiful eight-part number "Holy, Holy, Holy," which is usually cut in the performance of the "Elijah" from which it is taken, but which is so impressive as done in the British festivals that in Chapter E of the P. E. O. sisterhood will be entertained at the home of Mrs. T. M. Giltner Thursday afternoon. Roll call will be responded to with quotations on famous women. Following the business meeting a thimble bee will be held.

A concert for the benefit of the Woman's Relief Corps monument, to be placed in Forest Lawn cemetery, will be held Thursday evening at the Swedish auditorium. Musical numbers will be contributed by Miss Margaret McPherson, Miss Madge Mae Bourne, Miss Lizzie Lehman, Mr. Will Hetherington and the Council Bluffs Elks' quartet.

The vesper service at 4:30 will be in charge of the educational committee under Mrs. Edward Johnson and Miss Lita Bane, secretary of the household arts department. Rev. E. E. Taft of Grace Baptist church will speak on "The Art of Enjoying the Bible." The Young Women's Christian association chorus, directed by Miss Blanche Sorenson, will furnish music.

English when the chorus is sung the audience rises, as for the famous "Hallelujah" chorus by Handel. This chorus of Mendelssohn is one that should be well known and the Mendelssohn choir is doing a good thing in presenting it with the orchestra; another number from the same work and one nearly always omitted in the double quartet known as the "Angel's Chorus" sung originally by a quartet of men's voices and a quartet of women's voices; this will be sung by the entire choir divided into eight parts and accompanied by the orchestra.

The chorale ballad "Joshua" which closes the choir's work at the festival is by Modest Moussorgsky, the brilliant Russian composer whose work laid in obscurity until after his death and whose name was on the tongue of all the musical world last year in Europe and America. This is a hymn of praise to the famous leader Joshua and is founded on an ancient Hebrew theme; the combination of the ancient melody and the brilliant modern treatment of it which one would naturally expect from the Russian school can easily be imagined to be highly attractive.

The resurrection of an old German minnelied, "Von Adler Art" set to a beautiful English translation and arranged for choral singing by no less a master than Johannes Brahms is another offering which the Mendelssohn choir will make and, which it is thought, will be well appreciated.

An item which will be of interest to the Tuesday Morning Musical club, the music department of the Woman's club, the Club, and the other musical organizations of amateurs, professionals or music lovers is in connection with the Brahms Symphony which will be played at the afternoon concert; this symphony is one which has made audiences go into the most extravagant expressions of praise and which has brought great renown to the famous Johannes Brahms over whom critics have wrangled and argued, and whose fame is now assured; some go as far as to call Brahms one of the three Bs, the other two being Bach and Beethoven; while he was alive he was pitted against Wagner as the great musician of the day by the pronounced anti-Wagnerite, Hanslick, the witty Viennese

Dr. Holovtchiner Says that He is Not Against Women

"A dastardly lie," says Dr. E. Holovtchiner of the Board of Education, branding the misrepresentation published by a local evening paper, which circulated the report that Dr. Holovtchiner was leading a faction of the school board in an attempt to thwart the desires of a majority, who want a woman as second vice principal of the Central High school.

PEORIANS WILL BE GIVEN MUCH LOCAL ENTERTAINMENT

On Tuesday the special train of trade excursionists from Peoria, Ill., is to reach Omaha. A delegation from the Omaha Commercial club will receive the visitors. The excursionists are to come in uniform and are to parade the streets of Omaha headed by a band. They are to be the guests of the Commercial club at the Mendelssohn concert at the Auditorium. No less than 100 business men of Peoria are expected to come with the excursion.

of that time. The item referred to is, that in preparing the programs which will be distributed free of charge and which will contain full and complete notes of all the music, and the words sung by the soloists, the conductor has been able to secure and to use musical cuts, or plates, which will present enough of the music of the principal themes being worked out by the orchestra, so that students and music-lovers can easily follow the symphony with intelligence.

Another fine feature of this afternoon program will be the playing of the concert-master, Harry Weisbach, who had the distinction of being at one time a special pupil of Ysaye, and whose work is known to some lovers of the violin in Omaha by such an extent that requests were made that he be heard in solo work. He will play three movements of the beautiful Spanish Symphony of Lalo.

Some friends of Henri Scott disliked the selection that he made in presenting himself for the first time to an Omaha audience last season, and the criticism was a just one, because he sang what is known as the "Catalogue" aria of Don Juan of his many "lady friends" of whose hearts he had made conquest and as Mr. Scott had not sent any word for the program, of course, the songs fell flat to many who wondered what he was laughing about. This year he sings that wonderful music the "Abechied" of Wotan, the god who kisses his beloved daughter to sleep; the program will have a translation in the alliterative Wagnerian style, and he can be followed with understanding, while his noble voice will have something worthy of it.

The Mendelssohn Choir has this year arranged to have a number of cheaper seats in order to make the concert a popular affair and to enable students to attend all the concerts for practically the price of one. Last year the cheapest seat for a single concert was $1.50; this year a season ticket can be purchased for $2. In order to offset this the management decided to charge $4 for the first dozen rows downstairs and for the first two rows upstairs. In order to accommodate those who desire these particular seats, and so far there has been no complaint, the people getting the seats which they most desired, being perfectly willing to pay a little extra in order to let others have the cheap rate of $2 for the season, and it is believed that this is the cheapest festival in the country, compared with what is given. Single seats can also be had for each performance.

Second Consignment of Faithful Beasts Journey to Den.

TRAVEL IN A FORTIFIED COOP

Everett Buckingham's second shipment of live stock to the Ak-Sar-Ben den for initiation purposes this summer passed through the congested streets of Quincy yesterday. Samson's hired hand sent his first load, one husky goat of the brand which do the most damage, through the city one week ago at the noon hour.

However, he was tardy. It was seven minutes past the noon hour before the live stock put in appearance. In the meantime Dad Weaver was at sixteenth and Farnam streets anxiously surveying the scenery in efforts to find the whereabouts of the delayed shipment. Dad was very much put out at Buckingham's laziness and promises that he will reprimand the laborer severely and probably will dock him a day's wages.

The second shipment of live stock was one bull. Mr. Bull is of very large proportions and flames spurt from his warlike eyes at all times. According to best advice he is lately from Mexico, where he was engaged in the joyful pastime of crippling matadors and toreros. Upon learning this Buckingham promptly employed the bull to perform at the den.

The bull was penned up in a doubly fortified coop on top of one of Buckingham's wagons in order to prevent any anticipated activities during the journey to the den. Unlike the goat the bull was very pacific and did not attempt to frighten those who looked upon him as he passed. Instead he carefully scanned the watching faces with glowering looks and it could be seen that he was setting down in his mind those who grinned at him so that he could secure his revenge when the day came that he was not hampered by a prison cell.

Participants in Maypole Dance at Saunders School

CELEBRATE MAY FESTIVAL

Saunders School Pupils Deliver Program Planned Year Ago.

MISS THOMAS QUEEN OF MAY

Daughter of Mrs. E. E. Thomas Honored, Along with Misses Howell, Smith, Drishaus, Underwood and Ertreiken.

The 1914 May festival of the Saunders school at Forty-first and Cass streets was celebrated Friday by 34 children, who participated in the relay races and the fancy dances, arranged by their teachers. The festival was planned more than a year ago, but the arrangements were never completed because of the Easter tornado, which made more than half of the little boys and girls at the school homeless.

However, the affair Friday was more elaborate than even the one planned for 1913. Miss Mary E. Thomas, aged 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Thomas was queen of the May. She has attended Saunders school continuously since she entered the primary grade.

Miss Frances Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Howell, who has also attended Saunders school from the kindergarten to the eighth B grade, was in the queen's party, representing hope.

Dora Smith represented spring, Mildred Drishaus, love, and Thelma Underwood and Marian Ertreiken were canopy bearers.

Chester Slater, besides leading the wand drill, was also captain of a relay team, which won the race from Reuel Bruechert's team.

Miss Mary Wallace, who taught and trained the children in the dances, had charge of the May day festival. Misses Eloise, Madge, Belle and Vivian West played violins in a string quartet, and Mrs. P. F. Bonorien played the piano for the dances. A crowd of more than 300 persons, most of them mothers or friends of the mothers of the children, applauded the various numbers of the festival program out of delight at the perfection the children had attained in their dances, drills and songs. A tiny maple tree was set firmly in the ground as the children sang the planting song.

Many Friends at the Funeral of the Late Thomas F. Lee

Fully 600 friends of the late Thomas F. Lee, well known attorney, attended the funeral services at St. Philomena's church, Tenth and William streets, yesterday, the vestibule of the edifice being literally banked with floral tributes to the former city prosecutor, whose death came as a sudden shock to his many acquaintances. Father James W. Stenson conducted high mass.

The crowd, which filled the church, was composed of people in all walks and stations in life, and to the credit of the deceased many a tear of genuine sorrow was shed by those who knew the man best. Following the services twenty-six automobiles accompanied the hearse to the place of interment at Holy Sepulcher cemetery. City Commissioners Ryder, Dahlman, Withnell and Butler attended the services, as did the captains of police, Chief Dunn and practically all the officers with whom the former city prosecutor formed associations in his work. The pallbearers were Frank Shotwell, John M. McGowan, Thomas Quinlan, John E. Quinn, C. E. Barry, John A. Loeb, Thomas Flynn and J. B. Kellenner. In honor of his memory no session of police court was held this morning.
